A Word to the Wise and Otherwise.

The minutes of the Twenty-sixth annual session of the Kentucky Sunday School Union is before me, and the perusal of these leads me to make a few observations. What I write is directed mainly to heads of families, though I am glad to get the attention of the children also. Since it has never been settled who is the head of the family, the wife or the husband, these observations are meant for both, though if I were placed on the stand and forced to tell, sundry and various reasons would lead me to confess that the head of every family is the man who "runs" the family, i. e., the woman; all that the courts have said to the contrary notwithstanding.

But to my point. Montgomery county is put down as having 3,178 white school children, by which is meant children enrolled as attendants of the public schools. Of this number, 1,076 are enrolled attendants of the various Sunday schools of the county. In other words only about one-third of the children whose names are inscribed on the rolls of the public schools, attend Sunday school at all. And since the average attendance is generally about two-thirds the enrollment, only 718 young folks, at the outside figure, are instructed regularly in the Sunday school. This is a little over one-half the enrolled membership of the white churches in Mt. Sterling. Now I think this is distressing; particularly since my real conviction is that the total membership of the Sunday schools of the county, teachers and all, is not in fact over six or seven hundred. Statistics are deceiving, especially when made up as such, since every school desires to make the best possible showing. Hence, I repeat, that the real state of facts is worse and not better than the figures seem to show. Nor are our neighbors better than we. A glance at the tabulated statistics of the minutes, reveals the fact that Bath county is worse off than we, and but few of the blue grass counties better. So I am not crying down our grand old county. Nor am I uttering a pessimistic wail, but I write because I am hopeful of better things.

This condition is distressing for the reason that unless the children are taught the bible in the Sunday schools, they go through life with little or no knowledge of it at all. Mind you I speak of the young folks of this generation and most earnestly ask, is this not true? Much may be learned from the preacher and much at home. But speaking generally, reverence for God's word as a basis for reading it, and a knowledge of actual familiarity with many passages, can be acquired in this busy age only in the Sunday schools. This is the actual condition of things, the cold, hard facts, not as they ought to be, but as they are. While it is theoretically possible to learn at home and from private reading, there are so many other things to attend to that even the most religious find it well nigh impossible to get time to teach the children the Bible. And this step proves that they mean to teach and can do so. It says nothing about ability or inclination or even willingness. Now everybody of good hard sense concedes the Bible to be God's word—the revelation of his will concerning us. Then is it not to indifference that we must attribute this light attendance on the Sunday schools? It is not indifference—that is dead—but indifference—that is not, chiefly of the children but of the parents. There are times when the most restless boy desires to attend Sunday school, and he does not go because his parents are so indifferent, or careless or lazy that they never give the little fellow the slightest encouragement. Now is not this indifference criminal? A man who can send his boy or girl to the secular schools and does not do it, is put down by his fellows as guilty of gross neglect of duty. By some he is counted unworthy to have children, and to my thinking, such a "wretch" concentrated all in self, "can't be censured too highly. What then shall be said of the parents, who conceding that the Christian life is desirable above all else for their children, and who send them to the secular schools on Sunday mornings or permit their children to run wild on that day? And what shall we say of the members of the churches who are indifferent on this subject?

My observation is that young folks only need encouragement from parents to induce them to attend regularly even the dull Sunday school in the land. And further, that unless the parents are interested, and encourage their children, to secure their attendance is almost hopeless, unless the Sunday school is turned into a monkey show. Thank God that is seldom done.

My fellow citizens of Montgomery county think of these things I beseech you. Encourage your children, persuade them, constrain them, to attend Sunday schools. If you will not, don't blame them for not attending of their own will, and if they fall into crime in the years of their youth, don't go around mouthing about the law of the land and the looseness of morals in the community, but blame your own stupidities folly. There are people in this country who actually take more intelligent and discriminating care of their stock than of their children; and women who are too indolent and indifferent to get the little ones ready for Sunday school on Sunday mornings; who will be wringing their hands because their neglected children have "gone to the devil and degraded the family" in the years to come. If for no other reason seek to save them from folly and sin in this life. But most of all encourage them to seek their creator in the days of their youth because the end of all life, outside of Christ is death.

From Hotel Delone.

Mr. C. W. Reed, proprietor of the Hotel Delone, Omaha, one of the finest new and modern hotels in the west, says of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy: "We have used it in our family for years with the most satisfactory result, especially for our children, for colds and croup. It can be depended upon; besides it is pleasant to take and seems to be free from alcoholism and the oily substances put into many cough mixtures." 25 cent, 50 cent and $1 bottles for sale by T. G. Julian.

Working Women and Their Place To-Day.

The proportion of women whose daily lot is hard labor of some kind or other is not greater now than it has been in other periods. On the contrary, it is probably smaller. But at no former time has the wage-earning woman been so distinct a social and economic factor. Woman's work was formerly hedged in very closely by domestic condition. Her life was a part of the life of some family, and as an unattached industrial unit she was practically non-existent. Newer conditions have obviously changed all this; and every city has its army of young working women seeking an independent livelihood, just as it has its larger army of young men. The army of young working men in great funds, young men wholly unattached and fighting the battle of life upon their individual resources, has not been very long recognized as a distinct social element, and one for which peculiar provisions should be made. But its recognition has been more general, and there has been better provisions made for it than for the other army of young working-women. Yet the position of the young women is much the more difficult—that is the kind of work open to women are not half so numerous as those that young men can enter. And women's wages average little more than half as much as their brothers'. The practical difficulties in the way of procuring employment are especially great for young women, and conventional obstacles lie everywhere. The rights, the needs, the wants of working-girls call for agitation and for organized action. And in many ways the movement has begun—Albert Shaw, in February Scribner.

Experiments show that a person speaking in the open air can be heard equally as well at a distance of 100 feet in front, 75 on each side and 30 behind. At a symphony concert a good violinist can be heard on all sides with an annoying plainness that acoustics cannot account for.

A Cannibal Plant.

There has been discovered in Nicaragua a flesh-eating, or rather, man-eating plant, which is called by the natives "the devil's snare." In form it is a kind of vegetable octopus, or devil-fish, and it is able to draw the blood of any living thing which comes within its clutches. It appears that a Mr. Dunstan, a naturalist, has lately returned from Central America, where he spent two years in the study of the plants and animals of those regions. In one of the swamps which surround the great Nicaragua Lake, he discovered the singular growth of which we are writing. "He was engaged in hunting for botanical and entomological specimens, when he heard his dog cry out, as if in agony, from a distance. Running to the spot whence the animal's cries came, Mr. Dunstan found him enveloped in a perfect network of what seemed to be a fine, rope-like tissue of roots and fibres. The plant or vine seemed entirely composed of bony, interlacing stems, resembling more than any thing else, the branches of the weeping-willow denuded of its foliage, but of a dark, nearly black hue, and covered with a thick, viscid gum that exuded from the pores. "Drawing his knife, Mr. Dunstan attempted to cut the poor beast free; but it was with the greatest difficulty that he managed to sever the fleshy muscular fibres of the plant. When the dog was extricated from the coils of the plant, Mr. Dunstan saw, to his horror and amazement, that the dog's body was blood-stained, while the skin appeared to have been actually sucked or puckered in spots," and the animal staggered as if from exhaustion. "In cutting the vine, the twice curled like living, sinuous fingers about Mr. Dunstan's hand, and it required no slight force to free the member from its clinging grasp, which left the flesh red and blistered. The gum exuding from the vine was of a grayish-dark tinge remarkably adhesive, and of a disagreeable odor, powerful and nauseating to inhale." The natives, we are told, showed the greatest horror of the plant, which, as we have noted above, they called the "devil's snare," and they recounted to the naturalist many stories of its death dealing powers. Mr. Dunstan, we are told, was able to discover very little about the nature of the plant, owing to the difficulty of handling it, for its grasp can only be shaken off with the loss of skin, and even of flesh. As near as he could ascertain, however, its powers of suction is contained "in a number of infinitesimal mouths or little suckers, which, ordinarily closed, open for the reception of food." "If the substance is animal, the blood is drawn off and the carcass or refuse then dropped. A lump of raw meat being thrown in, in the short space of five minutes the blood will be thoroughly drunk off and the mass thrown aside. Its voracity is almost beyond belief."—Portland Transcript.

The New York World is out in an editorial, serving notice on both Hill and Cleveland that neither can be nominated because of the factional fights they have engendered in the State. It says further: "If, as now seems likely, the National Democratic Convention shall drop all New York candidates, then on a platform of reform and honest money soundness, we believe that any one of the following named gentlemen can unite the factions, carry New York and be elected President of the United States: Gov. Horace Boies, of Iowa; Gov. Robert F. Patterson, of Pennsylvania; Senator John M. Palmer, of Illinois; Senator John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky; Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller, of Illinois; Senator Arthur P. Gorman, of Maryland; Gov. William E. Russell, of Massachusetts; Gov. Isaac P. Gray, of Indiana; Gov. Leon Abbott, of New Jersey."

A mass meeting of the Democrats was held in New York City on Thursday night to protest against the holding of the State Convention next Monday, the 22d. This call is so evidently in the interest of one candidate, that resolutions strongly condemning the call were adopted. A committee on fifty was appointed to wait on the State Central Committee and lay the matter before them. Among the prominent men present were ex-Mayor Wm. R. Grace, Wm. E. Curtis, Abram S. Hewitt, Henry R. Bicknell, ex-United States District Attorney Stephen A. Walker, and ex-Secretary of the Treasury Charles S. Fairchild.

The Business Outlook.

R. G. Dun & Company's Weekly Review of Trade says: The business situation is not quite so satisfactory or encouraging as it has been. While there has been a gradual increase in the distribution of many lines of merchandise there is shrinkage in demand and much depression in iron. Further decline in cotton blights the hopes of a revival in Southern trade and speculation stimulated by cheap money and by a great success of coal speculation now extends to wheat and threatens to restrict export. Notwithstanding the fact that exports of wheat have been diminishing and for four days of the past week been only 300,000 bushels from the Atlantic ports while Western receipts continue large. Speculations at Chicago lifted the price 64 cents during the week and sales here have been 57,000,000 bushels. An advance from any cause which cuts off exports of breadstuffs at a time when Europe has heavy demands for stocks marked here would not be wholesome.

The Court of Appeals has twice, within a few days, given its endorsement to the validity of the new constitution; a thing the people had done in a most emphatic manner some time since.

H. M. McCarty, the venerable editor of the Jessamine Journal and one of the most brilliant writers of the State, who died at his late residence at Nicholasville, on the 15th inst., was buried at Bardonia last Wednesday.

Chief Justice Maxwell, of the Supreme Court, has handed down an opinion holding that Gov. Thayer had no right to hold the office of Governor nor had he the right to usurp authority and that Lieutenant Governor Majors should have held the office pending the test of Boyd's citizenship.

The Senate passed the Goebel Lottery Bill on Friday morning. The bill passed by a vote of 20 to 0; the opponents of the bill not voting. This is a step in the right direction and when the House shall pass it, if the law is enforced, it will help to rid us of a very great evil.

It is the opinion of those in position to know that the proposed amendment to the United States Constitution, providing for the direct election by the people of their United States Senators, is passing prosperously through its committee stage and will be reported favorably to the House.

The First Congressional district has started out with a multiplicity of candidates for Congress, Judge W. N. Robertson, Mayfield; Judge James Campbell, Paducah; Capt. Stone, present incumbent, J. K. Hendrick, Smithland; and two gentlemen of the Alliance party, who have not yet permitted the use of their names, but who will doubtless become candidates.

We are glad to notice that our representative had the manliness and liberal mindedness to vote for the appropriation to build a monument to the memory of Hart, the sculptor. Mr. Thomas is not in the legislature to make a "record," but to represent his constituents, and do that which he thinks will reflect honor on his State. A former legislature appropriated a large sum of money to bring Joel T. Hart's body home and now some members of this one refuse to vote $1,000 to mark the spot where his body is laid.

Governor Brown has wisely offered a reward of $200, for the capture of Berry Turner. This, in addition to the $100 offered by the Patrons, makes a reward of $300 offered. Turner and his gang were last heard from at "South America," not far from Pineville. Another fight is expected between the Turner and Patron factions.

Frank Martin, one of the famous Parton faction, is locked up at Middleboro for shooting W. T. Brooks, one of the Turner faction, on the 15th. Brooks was passing a cabin on Stony Fork, when Martin stepped out and said he should not pass. He was armed with a rifle and shot Brooks in the groin, from which Brooks will probably die. Martin escaped, but was pursued by Sheriff Colson and Deputy Turner, who arrested him at "South America," the scene of the Turner-Parton feud.

This space is for I. N. Phipps, successor to W. S. Caldwell, dealer in Clothing and Hats. His stock is complete with desirable goods, which, at this time, are marked down very low. The Clothing Department is full of choice bargains. Suits in all the latest styles and woven by the best manufacturers of this country. Youths' and Children's Suits Very Low. Customers will find everything as represented, both in price and quality of goods. Hats are sold at prices less than ever before, on account of the large stock to be reduced. Stiff and Soft Hats at all prices. Styles the newest. Money Saved. Examine his stock.

The Critic Egged.

The Lexington Transcript gives the following account of the eggings of a Lexington man that is said to have occurred in our city Friday night. The facts, as given by the correspondent, seem to be very nearly correct, so we copy the article entire.

Mr. Sterling, Ky., Feb. 20.—The eggings of the season occurred in front of the National Hotel in this city at a late hour last night. A young society man and would-be critic on the Leader, came to Mt. Sterling about a month ago to attend a ball and banquet, and in his report of the affair in the next day's Leader, he was very severe and made all sorts of unkind remarks about the supper.

Among other things, he said: "The supper was rotten, but I suppose it was owing to the fact that they had no eggs." Last night the same young critic came up and gave a box party at the Opera House and of course, put on a lot of style, as city boys generally do at a show in a small town. The Wilbur Opera Company seemed to have special attractions for him as he had followed the girls to this city after witnessing their performances every night for a week in Lexington.

Criticism aside and back to the facts: He was here and after the show he started to the National Hotel, but the night was dark and the boys were out with their pockets filled with eggs and when the young critic was near the hotel they let fly their spring-time missiles and covered his brown suit pants and all, with shells, white and yellow until he cried "enough." But the boys yelled: "d— be he who cries enough."

The screams of the young man attracted the attention of the police who rushed to the scene in time to see a loud pair of pants making their escape through the front door into the hotel office and hear a muffled laugh in the darkness near the new Court House. The young man was shown to his room where he was groomed up in passable shape and he retired a wiser, if not a more discreet man.

No arrests were made up to six o'clock this afternoon and from present indications there will be no extra exertions made by the police to bring the guilty parties to justice. Eggs are still firm and range from 15 to 20c; market brisk. Weather cloudy and cool. Track fast.

Mr. Clarence Bradley, dramatic critic of the Leader, gave a box party at the Opera House in Mt. Sterling, Friday night.—Lex. Transcript.

On Wednesday night George Gibson and Cole Smoot had a difficulty in Pangburn's saloon on Court street. During the quarrel Gibson struck Smoot with a beer glass when Smoot cut Gibson quite severely in the right breast. The wound, whilst serious, is probably not a fatal one. Smoot had an examining trial yesterday and was released.

Some parties without the fear of the law before their eyes broke into Mr. James Turley's cold storage warehouse on Friday night and stole a quantity of meat, wine, etc.

A Mob Felled.

The following special from Owingsville to the Courier-Journal, gives an account of an attempted jail delivery Saturday night: "About 12 o'clock last night a mob of fifty or sixty masked men called at the jail in this place, claiming to have a prisoner to lock up. Jailor D. S. Nixon was suspicious, however, and refused to let them in. The mob then revealed their true intentions by breaking down the front door of the jail and rushing in, saying they wanted and intended to have a man confined there, at the same time firing toward the head of the stairs, where the jailer and his son Will were stationed.

The jailer returned the fire as fast as he could, and the mob proceeded to disperse as rapidly as they could get out. It is not known whether any of them were struck or not. People differ in their belief as to who the mob wanted. Some think they wanted to release George Green, sentenced to the penitentiary for life for the murder of John B. Davidson, while others think they wanted to lynch the negro, Oscar Jones, who murdered Town Marshal Taylor Vice, of Sharpsburg. Christmas eve."

THE ADVOCATE.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Blue Grass Park, Winchester, Ky.

Messrs. Dean & Herriott, in 1889 determined to establish a stock farm for the purpose of breeding and developing trotters. They have built a five three-quarter mile track on the farm and are as well equipped for the business as any farm in the country. In purchasing a stallion they selected Algeria Wilkes, (sire of Hussar, 2:31, and Jessie Wilkes, 2:29) a horse bred in the purple, and a good individual. He was sired by Alewyn, 2:27, that great son of Geo. Wilkes, and the noted brood mare Alma Mater, the dam of five in the list, including the great Alcantara, for whom $50,000 had been offered. Algeria's dam Gossip, (dam of Don Wilkes, 2:24) is by Tatter, one of the best sons of Pilot Jr. 12. A horse whose name is great wherever trotters are known. His second dam is the grand old mare Jessie Pepper, (dam of Iona, 2:17, Alpha, 2:23, and five producing daughters) and one of the best daughters of Mambrino Chief, whose blood is pure gold for speed and racing qualities. No one can deny but that in Algeria Wilkes Dean & Herriott have a great bred one. Their brood mares are bred in royal lines, having some twenty-five matrons by such sires as Mambrino Patchen, King Rene, Mambrino Time, Bourbon Wilkes, Forest Wilkes, Sentinel, Bourne Jim, Clearmont, Harriet, Sentinel Wilkes, &c. It is almost a certainty that Algeria Wilkes will make a great sire, having such mares in the stud. Parties breeding to a stallion should look at the opportunities he will have when breeding to him. Blue Grass Park has the best of mares; train the produce and patrons breeding to the horse reap the results with the owners. Algeria Wilkes' service fee is low and you will make a mistake if you do not book some of your mares to him, see their advertisement in this weeks paper.

The dam of McKinney 2:12, is in foal to Baron Wilkes.

Horse buyers say that the demand for good, sound, smooth drivers far exceeds the supply.

In 1880 Red Wilkes stood at a fee of $20 by the season or $30 to insure. This year his fee is $100.

When breaking the colts teach them to walk fast. No gait is more desirable in a road horse than a fast walk.

The late sales show that animals must combine individual merit with approved blood lines in order to bring good prices.

As long as millionaires are willing to invest part of their surplus in high bred trotting stock, there will be money in raising that class of horses.

Don't imagine that time spent fixing up about the stable, grooming stock, cleaning harness, etc., is lost time. It makes and saves money both.

A. H. Moore, Philadelphia, has offered Graham & Conley $35,000 for Constantine, but they declined to entertain the proposition. He cost $27,000 at Woodard's sale.

Mr. Davis has insured his great horse Alcantara against death by disease or accident for $40,000. The premium on this amounts, it is said, to $3,800 a year.

Above all things in breeding, don't waste any time with a poor or indifferent mare. Common horses are so plenty that only good ones are in demand and bring fair prices.

It is the opinion of experienced horsemen that a colt cannot get too fat before he is two years old. He can be fed all that he will eat up to that age without injury, provided, of course, that he is given plenty of exercise.

At Harrodsburg Mr. Nimrod Buxter sold to St. Louis parties his seven year old gelding, Dandy Jim, for a price not made public. It is understood Mr. Buxter had refused $5,000 for him, and it is believed he will get a record of 2:13 or better this season. Crit Davis developed him.

The February sales have already proven to the breeders of Kentucky that nothing but a royal bred colt with speed and good looks will do in these days for a stallion. The market for good roadsters is excellent and our breeders will make a great mistake if they do not have more road horses and less common stallions.

The Southern Farm, San Leandro, Cal., has built a swimming tank in which to train its horses. While it may be a good thing for cripples or muscle-wre horses it cannot ever be of much use for youngsters that are sound, as walking the earth is good enough for them.

George W. Leavitt, who is one of the best judges of trotting horses that come to Kentucky, says Ralph Wilkes would be a cheap horse at $50,000 the way stallions are selling. He says he is perfectly sound, and in his opinion one of the best individuals he ever saw.

Mrs. C. R. Noyes, of Boston, has the courage and foresight of which successful breeders are made. She has booked Marinette, by Director, to Arion at $2,500. Marinette produced a magnificent filly by Astell, 2:12, last season and is expected to produce a foal by Nelson, 2:10, next summer. A foal by Arion from her would sell for a small fortune.

The first two trotters to enter the 2:30 list in '92 are Fred Drake, by Joe Gavin, and Brice-a-Brac, a three-year-old Alcantara filly. Fred Drake made a record of 2:27 and Brice-a-Brac, 2:29, in a match race on the 20th inst. California has thus set the ball rolling, and when the blizzards in the East are over in a few months their colts will begin to swell the list.

The many friends of Budd Doble will be pleased to learn that the great driver has completely recovered from the illness that for a time last summer prevented him from driving in a few races. "I was never better in my life than now," said Doble the other day, "and shall this year give my personal attention to every horse entrusted to me, and drive all the races in which my stable is engaged."

Mr. William Peters, of Independence, Mo., is here on a visit to his old home. Mr. Peters is a son of A. G. Peters, who, during his life time was considered one of the best horse men in Kentucky. Our friend Will is much like his father and is one of the best horse men in the country. He will remain here and handle horses if he has sufficient inducements offered. We hope he will stay with us as Kentucky cannot afford to have such a man leave her borders.

Bijou Moore has sold a pair of 4-year-old mules, 16 hands, to Mack Cecil for $225. Mr. Moore states that the same mules would have brought $350 four years ago. Mr. Moore believes that the value of aged mules has fallen off $10 on a head each year for five years past.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

Dwight Rue returned last Thursday from New Orleans where he had gone to sell a car load of mules. He reports prices low and found it an extremely slow matter to sell. It took him six weeks to dispose of his car load, mixed sugar and cotton mules, from 14 to 16 hands high, at from $100 to $140. He reports the horse market in New Orleans good.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

Capt. T. W. Bottom reports that at the sale of George Powell, dec'd, Saturday, 3 miles north-west of Perryville, bidding was lively. Several good horses sold from $72 to $125; sheep $5.55; corn in crib, $2.40 to $2.50; wheat 90 to 92c; oats in bush $3. A Lexington man has a steam heap break set on Joe Houston's place in the Centreville precinct. It is claimed that the machine can break and clean 10,000 pounds per day, with ten hands to keep it running. This amount broken by hand would require seventy hands.—Danville Advocate.

Georgetown Court, as given by the Times: Capt. Nat. S. Offutt, auctioneer, reports about 150 cattle on the market, best feeders bringing $4 to $4.25; good yearlings at $3.05 to $3.75; short yearlings, $3.05 to $3.25, and fat calves at $3.25. But few mules on sale. Broke stock brought $75 to $110; one pair sold at $200. Bennett Brannan reports feeding cattle at $2.25 to $2.35. He sold one lot of calves at the first-named price. He sold several horses at from $30 to $67. Three horses sold privately at the stable of Offutt Brothers at $85, $110 to $140.

Mr. Bijou Moore, has, up to date, 62 lambs from 50 ewes. He reports 156 sheep last year at $3.50, and calculates that if the balance of his herd turns out as well as the first fifty he will have 186 lambs. These are worth, June 12th, the time of spring delivery, usually about $4.00 each, equals $744, and the wool from each sheep is usually worth $1.00 per head, making a gross income from the flock of $930. Mr. Moore makes a comparison between the relative cost and profits of raising mules and sheep and concludes that the latter is the most profitable use to which a farmer can place his time and money, while the former yields only about $25 profit on every $125 mare bred to a Jack.—Harrodsburg Dem.

Mr. W. H. Prewitt, of this county, has bought in Boyle and Lincoln counties 7 thousand lambs for delivery from June 20th to July. Prices paid range from 5 cents for late delivery to 6 cents for May delivery, and 5 1/2 up to the tenth of June. Mr. Prewitt bought of the Shelby last week two hundred and fifty lambs for 50 cents for 25th of May delivery and 5 cents for June delivery.—Auctioneer A

G. Talbot reports 150 cattle on the market yesterday. He sold 24 head yearlings at $23, 10 head common two-year-olds at $17.35, and 22 two-year-olds at $22.15, work mules $45 to $98, pig hogs $28 to $63.—Danville Advocate.

Sunday a train robber, Oliver Curtis Perry, a former cowboy and later a railway brakeman, boarded a Central Hudson train between Syracuse and Lyons, N. Y., and after attempting to rifle the express car. When the train reached Lyons an attempt was made to arrest the robber, but he held the crowd at bay with two revolvers, drove the engineer from an engine, and started to make his escape. The express engine was freed from the car, and a running fight ensued along the parallel tracks. He was finally compelled to abandon the engine and seek safety by flight across the country, but was captured and lodged in jail. It is said to be the boldest attempt at railway robbery on record.

THE STATES.

Maine takes its name from the Province of Maine in France, and was so called as a compliment to the Queen of Charles I., Henrietta, who was its owner.

New Hampshire takes its name from Hampshire, England. New Hampshire was originally called Laconia.

Vermont is French (Vert Mont), signifying green mountain.

Massachusetts is an Indian word, signifying "Country About the Great Hills."

Rhode Island gets its name because of its fancied resemblance to the island of Rhodes in the Mediterranean.

The real name of Connecticut is Quann-on-tuc-tit. It is a Mohegan word and means "Long River."

New York was so named as a compliment to the Duke of York, who brother, Charles II., granted him the territory. New Jersey was named for Sir George Carter, who was at the time Governor of the Island of Jersey in the British Channel.

Pennsylvania, as is generally known, takes its name from William Penn, the "sylvania" part of it means woods. Literally it is "Penn's Woods."

Delaware derives its name from Thomas West, Lord de la Ware.

Maryland was named in honor of Henrietta Maria, Queen of Charles I. Virginia got its name from Queen Elizabeth, "the Virgin Queen."

The Carolinas are named for Charles (Carolina) II.

Alabama comes from a Greek word, and signifies "Land of Rest."

Three or four Indian interpretations have been given the word Arkansas, the best being that it signifies "Snaky Waters." The French prefix "Ark" meaning low.

Tennessee, according to some writers, is from Tennessee, an Indian Chief; others have it means "River of the Big Bend."

Kentucky does not mean "Dark and Bloody Ground," but is derived from the Indian word "Kai-tuk-ae," signifying "Land at the Head of the River."

Ohio has several meanings fitted to it. Some say that it is a Shawnee word, meaning "The Beautiful River," others refer to the Wyandotte word Oheana, which signified "Something Great."

Colorado is a Spanish word applied to that portion of the Rocky Mountains on account of its many colored peaks.

Nebraska means shallow waters.

Nevada is a Spanish word signifying "Snow-Covered Mountains."

The Future of Natural Gas.

As to the actual amount of gas produced it is difficult to obtain exact figures; too many people are interested in concealing or misstating the facts. But one tendency cannot be overlooked, the gradual withdrawal of gas for other uses than domestic heating and cooking. The demand from this source alone is already equal to the supply, especially if conservative notions prevail in regard to its permanence. Such use permits of better prices than to maintain factories, built to sell town lots, and that the who have monopolized the visible sources of supply should seek to restrict its uses to the more profitable channels is not to be wondered at. Nor is it strange if, in order to get the business into their hands, they are inclined to use gas for manufacturing has generally diminished. There certainly need be no fears that coal mining will be a lost art. But we are inclined to think that the present tendency is mainly a halt of reaction, and that natural gas has come to stay. Just now its uses are merely suggestive of the future. It brings to us fuel in the most convenient form—the refined essence freed from dross, weight, impurity, self-transporting, smokeless, an invisible potent agent, that once possessed of we cannot well part with. If nature cannot be depended upon to furnish it ready made we must undertake to make it, or something nearly identical, out of coal or oil.

It is still the age of steam and coal, but this is to be the type of all future time? Electricity is already with us, and there are indications too plain to be disregarded that the coal fire is to remain under special conditions only, just as the windmill and the water wheel retain a place in the world's economy. Who, then, can say that the age of gas is not yet to come?

When we consider that of all the products of the mine, coal has been reckoned the most important; when we remember that the Lehigh and Lackawanna coal fields alone have created fortunes more vast than the gold mines of California; when we realize that it has revolutionized the means of locomotion, that it has opened new highways of trade and travel; that it has supplanted the water wheel on land and the sailing ship on the seas, that it is the impelling force of commerce, and the foundation of a manufacturing system that has developed into proportions that were undreamed of a generation ago, what shall we say of the future, with the possible, yes, probable displacement of coal by something vastly better?—Engineering Magazine.

Banish all confusion.
Cleanliness is the first rule.
Make mustard plasters thin.
Ask the doctor as to visitors.

Wear a clean dress and a bright smile.
Flowers are permissible, but never in profusion.
Simple surprises are a pleasure to a convalescent.
Rheumatic patients should lie between sheets.
Eat a cracker or two before going into the room of contagion.

A sandwich of minced raw beef-steak often tempts an invalid.
A mustard plaster mixed with the white of an egg will not blister.

Watch the ventilation and gauge the temperature by a thermometer.
The sick chamber should be plainly furnished and no heavy hangings.

All wooleens or similar goods should be removed from the room where contagion is under treatment.—Philadelphia Record.

His treatment always proves satisfactory, local treatment is seldom necessary. His treatment of Ovarian Tumors, in their earlier stages, cured without pain or instrumental interference.

Heedfully is usually the result of carelessness or ignorance. It can be remedied. Spilepsy or Fits cured by a never failing treatment. Deafness, many cases can be cured. Cancers permanently removed from the most delicate organs by our own peculiar method: little or no pain; no loss of blood; no knife or caustic; the only positive cure. Gonorrhea, Varicose, Hemorrhoids, Spermatorrhea, and all unnatural discharges permanently cured.

Men of all ages who suffer from indigestion and weakness will benefit by our constant treatment. If they observe certain symptoms in the urine, or find traces of the urinary organs they should consult us without delay. We restore all such cases. FARM AND FARMER.

A CHANGE OF FOOD.—It often pays to experiment a little with food when the matter of milk is at stake and see if our ideas of what a cow should have is in harmony with what she, in her wisdom, tells us is best. A case in point with our own dairy illustrates the importance of conferring with the cow in the matter of feed. Our dairy was doing fine silage, corn and clover and third and oat—two-thirds, ground together, for a grain ration. There was not such a response in milk as we could wish, and so the ration was changed by adding a half of fine middlings (best) to make the same number of pounds fed daily. The change was made at the very beginning of the late severe storm and cold weather, and in five days the average increase of milk per head was 4½ pounds, nearly six cents' worth of milk additional to each cow. The increase was a surprise, as we had supposed that oats were an ideal food for milk, and were congratulating ourselves to find, with a home grown ration, we were independent of the grain dealers, but as we sold the oats at about $24 per ton, and saved the grinding besides, $240 more, and bought the middlings at $20, we are still actually feeding the result of the home grown feed and getting six cents per day per cow profits on the transaction. We attempt no explanation in the matter beyond this, that the cows seemed to enjoy the new mixture better, and are paying as readily for the trouble, and we have found out something that will be of benefit for the future.—Practical Farmer.

How many farmers know how much teach their horses, cattle, sheep and dogs have? We often laugh at the city people for not knowing the names and qualities of our many breeds of stock. A horse has forty teeth, a mare thirty-six (wanting the tusks or so-called wolf teeth), the ox and sheep tribes have only thirty-two, wanting the eight incisors in the upper jaw. The pig has forty-two teeth, the dog has forty-two teeth, and mankind only thirty-two. There are many things about animal construction that, coupled with the modern scientific investigation relating to stock breeding, feeding and management, every farmer's son should know, and may learn free of charge by attending the winter term of the State Agricultural College that is now so generously provided by the government in every State. Why let the duties in the literary departments of these colleges reap all the benefits and the farmers' sons, for whom the agricultural colleges were created, quietly stay at home?—Western Agricultural.

FEEDING THE SWINE.—Pumpkins are valuable feed for hogs in connection with other foods, such as corn, bran, oatmeal, etc., but twice prefer the pumpkin cooked, as they do not seem to like them best. They afford a good way to use up small potatoes by either boiling or steaming them with pumpkins. If to this combination is added wheat bran and all the corn the hogs will eat it. It is difficult to imagine a better combination of food for fattening them unless it is the addition of all the milk they will drink. This can be fed separately or in combination, as the hogs may seem to like them best. They afford a good variety, are well relished, and contain the elements for promoting growth as well as for fattening. If one has steaming apparatus or kettles for boiling, we prefer steaming. It is not much of a job to cook the potatoes and pumpkins, nor is the necessary apparatus very expensive. We think every farmer should have such an outfit for heating, steaming and cooking.—Mirror and Farmer.

FLOOR FOR HORSE STALLS.—It is extremely difficult to make a better floor for horse stalls than the clay floor solidly tramped to make it hard. Such a floor will be elastic without being soft, and is the best possible one for maintaining a healthy condition of the hoof. Littered with straw, as all floors should be, the liquid manure will all be absorbed, and the straw covering will prevent the shoe clanks from disturbing the clay. A horse standing upon such a floor will have a hoof that is soft and yet tough, capable of enduring much more wear than a dry and brittle hoof, such as horses usually have that stand upon wooden floors.—Indiana Farmer.

OLEANES.—Long finger nails cause a great many cows to contract the kicking habit. Milkers should keep the nails so closely trimmed that they will not cut the teats while milking.

Feed up the hay and grain so far as it is possible to do so. The manure from the animals will save your farm from deteriorating. Crops continuously grown and sold from the farm soon impoverish the soil and render artificial fertilization necessary.

The most suitable temperature for what are known as green house plants, such as geraniums, carnations, camellias, arbutons, etc., is about forty-five degrees at night. Hot house plants better have fifteen degrees more.

The common practice among country people in mixing ripened and now cream together just before churning will not produce the best results. The flavor will be deficient, and the time of churning will be greater than if all ripened cream be used.

When a steer keeps poor all winter notwithstanding he has plenty of food, water and shelter, it is in order to look out for life, warbles or some other form of parasite. When an industry of any kind does not prosper with good seasons and natural conditions favoring it, it is just as important to look for parasites.

Happy Hoosiers. Wm. Timmons, postmaster of Ellettsville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from Kidney and Liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman, of same place, says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the best Kidney and Liver medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: "Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50c. a bottle at W. S. Lloyd's drug store."

Solidified Petroleum Fuel. The value of petroleum as a fuel has led to several attempts to solidify it, and thus to render it more convenient to use than when in the liquid form. The most recent method of doing this is that of Mr. Cheneal, a demonstration of whose invention was given recently at the works of the Solidified Petroleum (Pioneer) Corporation, Galaboro road, Hackney Wick. The process of conversion is very simple and rapid.

A given quantity of crude petroleum is first drawn off into a vessel, and with it is mixed about 15 per cent of certain chemicals, which are in themselves largely combustible. The vessel containing the mixture is then placed for a short time in boiling water, which causes a fusion to take place. The vessel is then transferred to a furnace, having a temperature of from 400 degrees to 500 degrees F., the mixture being kept stirred. In a short time solidification takes place, after which the compound is pressed into blocks for use. The chemicals employed for admixture with the petroleum are stated to cost only about the same as the petroleum, and the process of conversion does not require any skilled labor.

The whole process, from the first mixing to solidification, occupies only about half an hour, and the converting apparatus is simple and inexpensive. The solidified petroleum burns freely and with but a small percentage of ash. For reasons connected with the foreign patent relating to this invention the nature of the chemicals was not disclosed. Neither was the cost of production stated, but from what was shown this cannot be excessive. It was, however, stated that the heating power of the new fuel was much in excess of that of steam coal, than which it could be sold much cheaper.—Paper Trade Review, London.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at W. S. Lloyd's drug store, large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

PURE DEMOCRACY!

The kind that made our country one of the greatest powers among nations, is what is now needed to combat the crisis prophesied by that true patriot, Abraham Lincoln, who said: "We may all congratulate ourselves that the cruel war is nearing its close. It has indeed been a trying hour for the Republic; but I see in the near future a crisis arising that unnerve me and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country. As a result of the war, corporations have been created and an era of corruption in high places will follow. The Money Power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people until all wealth is aggregated in a few hands, and the Republic destroyed. I feel at this moment more anxiety for the safety of my country than ever before, even in the midst of war."

There is no disguising the fact, that the condition now confronts us which caused the patriot Lincoln so much anxiety.

A money power controls political parties and all important elections, placing its agents in high places of honor and trust. The same power controls all legislation and dictates what shall be the law of the land, a result made possible and even by "working upon the prejudices of the people" through the medium of our public press, of which ninety-nine out of every hundred are either owned in full or part, or controlled by its agency.

The political contest of 1892 will again test the strength of this money power, different from previous efforts only in its greater virulence and ability to deceive.

Like an oasis in the desert, the Cincinnati Weekly Enquirer rises equal to the emergency, placing before its readers unbiased truth and facts so harmful to corruptionists' plans, and beneficial to the people. "Truth is all mighty and will prevail," is the Enquirer's platform. It is always gratifying to A. C. Ashley after a four weeks meeting at Parkville, Ind., with additions. Elder A. ICEBERGS.

To the familiar explanation of the formation of icebergs must be added another. Mr. Israel C. Russell, in recounting his expedition to Mount St. Elias, says that the foot of a glacier extends out under the muddy water, sometimes for a thousand feet or more, in front of the visible part of the ice cliffs. When this extension of the ice foot has reached the point where the buoyancy of the ice at the bottom exceeds its strength, huge pieces break off and rise to the surface. The sudden appearance of these masses of ice is always startling. "At first it seems," says Mr. Russell, "as if some huge sea monster had risen from the deep and was washing the water into foam." Soon it can be seen that a blue island has appeared above the surface, carrying up hundreds of tons of water, which flows down its sides in cascades of foam. The fragments which rise from the bottom in this manner are usually larger than those broken from the faces of the ice cliff, sometimes measuring two hundred or three hundred feet in diameter. Their size and the suddenness with which they rise would insure certain destruction of a vessel venturing too near the treacherous ice-walls.—Popular Science Monthly.

The large spot recently formed on the sun has broken into about twenty smaller spots, and others have formed at a great distance from these.

At Dresden they are baking an American corn bread that is finding much favor, and is much cheaper than their ordinary bread. A pound costs a trifle over 3 cents.

It is probable that Cornelius Drebbel, a Hollander, in the year 1630 first proposed a method for indicating changes of temperature by means of a glass bulb.

The standing army of the Argentine Republic numbers 6000 men and there are over 50 generals on the active list. This gives a general to about every hundred other warriors of all lower grades.

At American Flag in Southern California, lives an old woman of sixty-eight, who in her early youth had a high valuation placed upon her by her church. Her father's brother, Jesus Castro, fell in love with her, and she reciprocated his affections. None of the priests would perform the ceremony. Castro offered one priest to give as much as $5,000 to the church if the marriage knot could be tied. This, however, was considered too little. Finally it was agreed that if Castro would give the girl's weight in gold they should be made man and wife. He did so and never regretted the price paid for his wife.—Portland Transcript.

It seems as if 1892 were going to be a particular fatal year for explorers. Within a day or two of Sir James Grant's death, in Scotland, Dr. Junker, another celebrated African traveler, died in St. Petersburg, and on Monday Capt. John Parry North Pole expedition in 1890, died in England. In Capt. Greene's case it appears that Arctic explorations and exposure were good for the health, as he survived the terrible journey seventy-two years. Nor may it be amiss to note that Admiral Sir Provo Wallis, the senior officer of the British navy, who died last week, was a lieutenant on board the Shannon, in her celebrated encounter with the Chesapeake off the Massachusetts coast, nearly seventy-nine years ago, and was placed in command of the Chesapeake after her capture.—Courier-Journal.

Great Contest.

One of the most exciting contests in the history of Central University will be that to be held on Monday evening next to decide upon a representative to the Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Contest to be held in the latter part of April at Georgetown. In order to make this a most interesting affair, Dr. Blanton has decided to award a gold medal to the second best speaker—the best speaker to represent the College in the coming contest.

There will be seven speakers, all trained orators, several of whom have met before in the intellectual arena. In the list of orators of the occasion whose names are given below, are represented every style of speaking, and surely every one in the audience will have abundant opportunity to be interested in the exhibition. At the present writing it is pretty well conceded that no one has a "chance" in the contest, but all the fellows will keep up their training the judges will have a hard time to arrive at a decision. At all events it will be a great day in "Capua."

The speakers and their subjects are here given in the order of their delivery:

- "Phantoms of Hope," E. P. Tribble, '92, Ep., Richmond, Ky.
- "Parnell," Cabell H. Chensault, '93, Ep., Richmond, Ky.
- "Our Government," C. O. Groves, '94, Ep., Mt. Sterling, Ky.

C. K. & W.

Last week Mr. J. S. Spaulding, of Elmira, N. Y., of the C. K. & W., was in the city, and the question of construction was freely discussed with the local board of directors: J. M. Big Chairman, and A. Baum and N. H. Trimble. Foreign parties are ready to plank down the money and put a force to work at once if the statements of Mr. Spaulding, to their agent in this country, as to cheapness of construction, saving in mileage, and the fact that the country to be developed, shall prove to be correct. There is but one thing which they propose to ask from the counties through which the road will pass, and that is a guarantee of the right of way. To Montgomery county and the State of Kentucky as a through line with connections North and South, and a developer of our resources, this is the best line ever proposed, and we think our people, through whose lands it would pass, would be only too glad to give the right of way. This line, with the Kentucky Midland connecting with the K. U., at Clay City, and what we now have, would make Mt. Sterling a population of 50,000 in a few years, and would develop every other town along the line in proportion. But aside from this consideration Eastern Kentucky development resulting in, in cheaper coal and lumber, would many times more than pay for our investments. The taxable property of the road alone would more than replace any damage.

Court of Appeals.

Wigington vs. the Commonwealth, Montgomery; petition for re-hearing submitted; continued for oral argument; Clerk Whitney vs. the Kentucky Midland R. R. The following cases were submitted: Esterling vs. Chiles, Thompson & Co.; Williams vs. Cooper Morgan; Lane vs. Traders Deposit Bank, Bath. RELIGIOUS.

Elder Forest, of Lexington, preached two very acceptable sermons at the Christian church Sunday morning and night.

Rev. G. B. Overton, of Louisville, preached two excellent sermons for Dr. R. Hiner's congregation on last Sunday morning and night.

Elder W. S. Keene, of Covington, who recently conducted the series of meetings at the Christian church, will fill Elder H. D. Clarke's pulpit next Sunday morning and night. This announcement will be sufficient to bring out a crowded house.

Elder H. D. Clarke is in the midst of a most interesting and successful meeting at the First Christian church, Covington, Ky. There were seven additions as a result of the first five services at last reports. The Covington papers speak in very complimentary terms of Brother Clarke.

The meeting held at Warsaw seems to be growing in interest and its influence is extending. An exchange says: "The wonderful revival is still in progress at the Methodist church in Warsaw, Ky. Dr. Vaughan and Rev. C. J. Nugent did the preaching up to Saturday, February 6. Since that time Rev. Barker, the pastor, has been doing the preaching. All the business houses, including three saloons, closed up last week from 11 to 12 each day. All denominations are working in harmony. Things were moving smoothly until Sunday night when Rev. Mr. Barker referred to Sabbath-breaking church members keeping stores open, &c. Then the bombshell burst. Men became enraged, cursed and said ugly things out on the streets. The fight is warming up. The best citizens of the town are on Mr. Barker's side, and excitement is up to fever heat. Such a revival tide has not been felt in Warsaw in twenty years. Old citizens say the like was never witnessed. It is now widening out, and the influence is spreading on both sides of the river.

Mr. J. A. Over furnishes us the following notes of meetings held and in progress by evangelists of the Christian church:

The meeting at Mt. Orab closed Feb. 4, with 112 added, conducted by Elder B. C. Black.

We take from the North Middleton Advance of last Tuesday the following account of the stabbing of T. P. Gaitskill, who is well known in this city, by R. C. Skillman: "T. P. Gaitskill was painfully stabbed early this morning by Constable R. C. Skillman, while resisting arrest. Gaitskill, who drives the stage between Mt. Sterling and this place, was in his cart preparing to leave, when Skillman approached and arrested him on a warrant charging him with cutting with intent to kill. Gaitskill struck at him several times and attempted to draw a knife, telling him him that he would cut the (Skillman's) throat before he would be arrested."

Skillman took hold of him and during the scuffle stabbed him in the left side. The knife entered between the ninth and tenth ribs, and the wound, though painful, is not necessarily dangerous. The knife need be a spring-back three-inch blade Rogers'.

The warrant for Gaitskill's arrest was sworn out by President of Council, charging him with cutting his son John on last Friday night during a fight."

T. C. Graves is moving to the elegant new residence he bought of W. S. Caldwell on Holt avenue.

Mr. Thos. Foster, of Spencer, died on Saturday morning, aged 75 years. He was a good man, greatly beloved by all her neighbors, a conservative member of the Christian church, and when the end came, met the great enemy of all mankind without a tremor. He leaves a wife and eight children. All the children are grown. Burial Sunday at the family burying ground.

There is a wide-spread fear that the dreaded Typhus fever which has made its appearance in some of the Eastern cities, will find its way all over the country. This dread scourge is probably one of the most virulent and deadly known to medical science. It is generally admitted to be the plague that caused such fearful havoc throughout Europe during the middle ages, and is due to bad food and improper sanitation. It would seem that there is small prospect, that with the advanced knowledge of the present day, it cannot be kept in check. There are at present in New York City about 100 cases, most of them Russian Jews; just landed, who brought it with them. It is reported that many of the native population who have come in contact with it, have contracted the disease as it is highly contagious.

Mr. R. G. Gudgey says the friends of the Millard in Frankfort are jubilant over the prospects of the extension of the road. Gentlemen, who speak advisedly, told him that the prospects for the completion of the road were better than ever. He declined to say more but claimed to know whereof he spoke.—Owingsville Opinion.

Among the visitors to the annual celebration of the anniversary of the institution of the order of Knights of Pythias at Lexington last week, the following gentlemen from this city were present: Judge L. Apperson, A. A. Hazelrigg, Dr. D. L. Proctor, B. F. Robinson, J. H. Bruner, John William, Lewis Eastin and James Voris. The visitors report a pleasant time. The drill was exceedingly creditable and their entertainers did everything in their power to make the guests feel at home. The banquet spread in Jackson's Hall was a splendid feast and when Gen. Sam Hill wound up his address of welcome with the injunction "to fall to and eat," they "eat."
